Lesbian, Gay and Bisexual Youth in California

Disparities among youth based on sexual orientation are startling. Lesbian, gay and bisexual (LGB) youth in California experience higher rates of poor emotional health, substance use and school absences compared with youth that identify as straight. Addressing these challenges in schools through policies and programs are critical to supporting the health and educational outcomes of all youth.

This issue brief highlights findings from the California Department of Education’s California Healthy Kids Survey (CHKS) and California School Staff Survey (CSSS) for 2013-2015. Students in 7th, 9th and 11th grade and in non-traditional programs, and elementary, middle and high school staff were surveyed. Findings are available for most counties and school districts.

61% reported feeling so sad almost every day for two weeks or more that they stopped doing usual activities

Compared to 29% of straight peers

45% reported using alcohol or drugs in the past 30 days

Compared to 22% of straight peers

50% reported skipping school or cutting class at least once in the past year

Compared to 35% of straight peers
Policy and Program Implications

LGB students benefit when their school has adequate counseling and support services, addresses substance abuse and engages in collaborations with the community. In settings of positive school climate, all students, including LGB students, experience better emotional health, decreased substance use and fewer unexcused school absences. School staff recognize that more can be done to support students:

Less than one-third of school staff reported that their school:
- has adequate counseling and support services
- has effective services for substance abuse and other problems
- engages in community collaboration

Special attention to funding, service delivery and integrated support can strengthen school climate:

- Maximize funding streams, such as California’s Local Control Funding Formula, the Mental Health Services Act and Medicaid.
- Provide enhanced health care services delivery, including mental health services at schools and school-based health centers.
- Integrate the system of support so that youth, parents, school staff, local agencies and community organizations can work together to support LGB youth.
